Executive Summary

Deliverable D5.6 presents the results of the second round of training sessions delivered under Task 5.5, focused on Legal Issues around Non-Content Data (NCD) and the TRACY Platform and Methodology. The sessions aimed to familiarize end-users with the platform and its functionalities through hands-on activities in secure, simulated and demonstration environments.

Three major training events were conducted, involving different law enforcement and intelligence organizations. Evaluation data collected from participants provided insight into the effectiveness of the training content, delivery, trainer performance and platform usability.

A key finding was the significant difference in engagement and satisfaction between sessions. Participants from the HPOL organization, involved in pilot activities for several months, reported the highest confidence levels and satisfaction scores. This reflects the benefits of direct interaction, focus and extended platform use.

Based on participant feedback, the training was well-received overall, especially regarding trainer expertise and the balance between theory and practice. A few areas for improvement were identified, including the need for more complex case scenarios and potentially expanding training in foundational technical skills.

To ensure consistent understanding and usability across all organizations, additional tailored training sessions are recommended. The lessons learned and participant feedback will guide the continuous improvement of future training initiatives under WP5.
